

Hello, I am a homeschooled teenager in rural Montana. As I was writing this letter, the power actually went out. First off, I would like to inform you of how hard it is to get any radio reception where I live. Mountains upon mountains block almost any reception. Secondly, XM radio offers the only music I listen to, which no other radio station on this planet offers. It makes me sick to think that while US soldiers are molesting young women in foreign countries, you are trying to ban satellite radio. I am not a politician, nor would I want to be. But I did support the so called "war on terrorism" which turned out to be more or less a war on errorism. And I have quickly seen the freedoms in our "great" country go from somewhat of a republic, downhill toward a total government control, or totalitarianism.(remember I said TOWARD) When do we say enough is enough? Do we just let our government take away basic freedoms and ways of life, or do we step in and put a stop to it? I prefer the second one, personally. If you take away XM satellite radio, then other companies and businesses will follow, and other freedoms and amendments will be infringed upon. Please, dont let our country sink further into this seemingly endless black hole. Vote in favor of the XM satellite company and start worrying about more important issues, like investing OUR social security funds into the stock market. Thank you for your time.Sincerely,
Jake
